Centenary birthday of St Joseph Allamano in heaven

(1926 -2026)

His dies natalis in eternal life is 16 February 1926. Tomorrow will be exactly 100 years!

Physically he is not with us, but in reality he is more with us than ever. He once said that when he would be in heaven, he would be our intercessor — and he has kept his word. Around the globe, how many people have received graces thanks to his intercessions? Many. Just one example is the miracle for Sorino Yanomami in the Amazon, which led to his canonisation only two years ago.

We thank God for having used him to give the Church the charism of the Consolata. He wanted the Good News to reach all corners of the earth: "Go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature" (Mk 16:15). Go and console my people. Consolation is nothing other than the person of Jesus Christ himself.

Celebrating the centenary is a time, among other things, to thank God for the gift of St. Allamano, now present also in our community. We thank him for the charism God worked through him. His desire was that consolation reach all corners of the earth and that all humanity come to know Jesus. He wanted to go on mission himself, but fragile health did not allow it. God used him to found two missionary institutes for this purpose. He first founded the Consolata Fathers (priests and brothers) in 1901. Facing challenges in mission and encouraged by Pope St. Pius X, he founded the Consolata Sisters in 1910. These missionaries, who hail from over 30 different countries, are scattered and work as one family in many parts of the world, especially where Christ is not yet known. They serve in Asia (South Korea, Mongolia, Taiwan); the Americas (USA, Canada, Mexico, Brazil, Venezuela, Colombia, Bolivia, Argentina, Ecuador); Africa (Kenya, Tanzania, Uganda, South Africa, Mozambique, Eswatini, Democratic Republic of the Congo, Ivory Coast, Guinea-Bissau, Ethiopia, Madagascar, Eritrea); and Europe (Italy, Spain, Portugal, Poland, and the United Kingdom). In the UK they are present in London with four missionaries. High Barnet is the only parish where we work in the UK
